

KHAS SFL English Preparatory Program Instructor Applications

At the KHAS School of Foreign Languages, we prepare our students for the challenges ahead in the English-medium academic programs of Kadir Has University through comprehensive language instruction in our English Preparatory Program (EPP) and Academic English Program (AEP).

The EPP receives approximately 1000 new students every year, and, its program plays a crucial role in supporting new students to acquire language capabilities and academic foundation for a healthy transition to academic life in their faculties. The AEP with its academic English programs empowers around 1500-1600 students each year through fostering academic literacy, critical thinking skills, and study-skills necessary in the university context.

We value academic integrity and academic standards in both of our programs, so we have high expectations of our students and ourselves. Institutionally we embrace a willingness to thrive on hard work, readiness for new challenges, openness to new ideas, and commitment to professional development. Therefore, we invite English language instructors with excellent academic credentials to join us to make learning a better experience.
